“ A hard worker, when i met him, he was renting a room to a guy i was dating at the time, we all worked at the same shipyard, Jack on sunday would line up slices of bread like and assembly line and make all his sandwiches for the week. He would always ask where ya been? when you ran into him. if he was mad or frustrated he turned and amazing maroon color in his face, and i admit i would provoke him into the shade sometimes cuz it was so easy, A brew in every pocket wearing farmer orveralls around his house working, first person i met had a Home office. Rose and Jack married in a park on a lovley July day, when it came time for rose to love honor and obey, she did hesitate for a few seconds, just for the drama I think. May you be in the hands of Jesus, fully restored
