“ I'm glad I was there with my grampa Jay in his final days. Though they were not my finest, he always put a smile on my face and thanks to his support, I am now back on a better path. He taught me how to pull yourself up by the boot straps and will always be my hero. The man was true grit but true love at the same time. Something you don't see very often these days. Thanks Gramps for...well everything. Love you, miss you.

“ Geneva, Darrell, and Dorita: Mom (Marjorie Overstreet), Tom, and I want you to know we are remembering you in your time of loss and grieving. Your family has always meant a lot to us. You were good neighbors and friends. I well remember riding on the school bus with you kids. Tom has also gotten to know you and considers you to be good friends. Tom just now took a copy of the obituary to Mom. We learned of this only a few minutes ago--too late to come to the visitation; however, we want you to know we are thinking of you.

“ I've lost a grandfather but in body only. He will forever be cherished in my memories. He will live there as long as I live. I continue--will continue--to love him dearly. I have yet to meet any man or woman who was closer to saintliness and who expressed such love and compassion. There are many of us who were fortunate enough to be on the receiving end of Grandpa's compassion and love. We are all are richer for it. I know my life has been enriched by knowing him so intimately. I will love him forever.
Sincere and heartfelt condolences to all my family and friends in Pierce City. I am with you there in spirit. I am also celebrating the wonderful light in our life that was Jay Brown.
God Bless him. God Bless us.
Yours,
Patrick Brown
